PROCLAMATION
PREPAREDNESS MONTH
SEPTEMBER 2011

WHEREAS, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, along with other federal, state, local, private and volunteer agencies, is working to deter, prevent, and respond to all types of natural and technological emergencies; and

WHEREAS, North Dakota's susceptibility to severe summer and winter weather, wild fires, and flooding, compounded with the continued risk of potential terrorist attacks, demonstrates a broad-based need for North Dakotans to have a plan for response and recovery in the event of an emergency; and

WHEREAS, "Preparedness Month" creates an important opportunity for North Dakotans to learn more about preparing for all types of emergencies, from potential terrorist attacks to natural disasters; and

WHEREAS, citizens are encouraged to make preparedness a priority in their schools, businesses, communities and homes by following four simple steps: get a kit, make a plan, be informed and get involved; and

WHEREAS, North Dakotans are encouraged to participate in citizen preparedness activities and to review the North Dakota Department of Emergency Services Web site at www.nd.gov/des for preparedness information.

NOW, THEREFORE, as Governor of the State of North Dakota, in support of National Preparedness Month, I do hereby proclaim September 2011, PREPAREDNESS MONTH in the state of North Dakota.
